The screensaver provides you with various views of a tropical island, where you can spot various animals. The mouse can be used to rotate the Island around the screen. The search bar allows you to specify the names of animals that you would like to view, and the sketch tools allow you to show different views of a selected animal. The game of Googling continues between you and the computer, showing whatever pictures and websites you find relevant. The graphics are made with the 3D tool SketchUp. Google SketchUp Description: This is a free, open source 3D modeling software that allows you to create a variety of 3D models, including models of real and imaginary objects. With SketchUp you can create a free, self-constructing 3D model of any object that comes in front of the camera. The advantage to creating your own 3D model is that you have complete control over the shape and look of your model. You can move the model around in any direction in your computer's window, and click and drag in any direction to rotate the object. To move along the x- and y-axes, simply click and drag as though you were lining up the model with the side of the screen. Google SketchUp includes a wide range of features that help you build a picture from your computer. You can add text to your model, or adjust the look of the model by changing the look, color, or transparency of the model's surfaces. The model's surfaces can be hidden, or displayed as different surfaces for different parts of the model. When viewed on a computer screen, you can change the viewpoint of the model. You can also see your model's shadows. Google SketchUp comes with hundreds of pre-created 3D models. These models include the entire Alphabet, various countries, and many other 3D models. You can use the model of just about any object from your computer's hard drive. When you save a new 3D model, you can share it with friends, classmates, and other computer users as a link. You can also link it to other websites, such as Flickr. Requirements: ⬚ Intel Pentium III 500 Mhz ⬚ 1 GB RAM ⬚ 320 Mb of Free HDD Space Google SketchUp Screenshots: Special features: ?
